DynTek Taps Ion Gott as Managing Director for the Microsoft Practice

Newport Beach, CA – May 19, 2011 – DynTek, Inc. \(DYNE.PK\), a leading provider of professional technology services, today announced that Ion Gott is the new Managing Director for the Microsoft Practice effective May 16, 2011.

Ion has over 10 years of experience scoping and delivering Microsoft based projects. He joined the DynTek Services team in 2004 as a Senior Project Consultant and has been promoted to Principal Consultant, Principal Technologist and now to Managing Director. During his career at DynTek, Ion has been a leader in the architecture, planning, delivery and pre-sales of Microsoft-based projects. In addition to providing excellent consulting services to many DynTek customers and managing a team of professionals, Ion still finds time to broaden his own education and holds many technical certifications including Microsoft Certified IT Professional, MCSE, CISSP and CISA just to name a few.

“I am excited to expand my responsibilities at DynTek and work closely with both our organization and Microsoft to further accelerate the growth and development of our Microsoft solutions,” said Gott. “We have an exceptional team of technical consultants at DynTek with a consistent dedication to “getting the job done right” that will enable the Microsoft practice to continue to grow at record levels.”

“Time and again, Ion has proved to not only be an excellent technologist, but also a valued sales accelerator and customer advocate,” said Ron Ben-Yishay, DynTek’s chief executive officer. “We look forward to further leveraging his talents in a leadership role at DynTek.”
